Collection Overview

Size	About 350 items (14.5 linear feet)
Abstract	The Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship International (FGBMFI) is a faith-based organization created by Demos Shakarian in 1951 in an effort to merge faith in God with business practices. It is a fellowship of business people that operates in over 100 countries; there are many regional chapters throughout the United States. Materials include original audio cassette tape recordings, the majority of which were made at FGBMFI chapter meetings, conventions, and outreach efforts in North Carolina. These tapes contain sermons, music sessions, and testimonies from different people associated with the FGBMFI. Recordings of two speakers are featured. The first set is of Solomon Ono, a native of Honolulu, Hawaii, containing 22 audio cassette tapes from his sermons and testimonies, October 1974-October 1977. The second set is of the Reverend Dr. C. Paul Willis of the Cathedral of His Glory in Greensboro, N.C., containing 92 audio cassette tapes from his sermons and testimonies, February 1979-January 1992, with the bulk of the tapes recorded before 1984. There are also a small number of commercial recordings, including recorded radio programs and a series of tapes of evangelist Pat Robertson. Also included is a list of speakers, 1969-1996; showing who spoke or testified at various North Carolina FGBMFI chapter meetings, chiefly at the Durham-Chapel Hill chapter.

Historical Information

The Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship International (FGBMFI) is an organization that was created in Los Angeles, Calif., in 1951 by Demos Shakarian. Born 21 July 1913 in Downey, Calif., Shakarian was a dairy and beef farmer before beginning the first chapter of the FGBMFI ministry. Demos Shakarian's son, Richard Shakarian, took over the FGBMFI upon his father's death in 1996.

Created to merge faith in God with business practices, the FGBMFI is a fellowship of business people that operates in over 100 countries, including extensive regional chapters throughout the United States.
